

Robust Quicklift – Safety & Liability Disclaimers (Australia)

1. Safety Disclaimer – Use at Your Own Risk (Australian-Compliant)

Robust Quicklift equipment is designed for lifting vehicles and related automotive work. Use of this equipment involves inherent risks.

To the fullest extent permitted by Australian Consumer Law (ACL), users acknowledge and agree:

- The user is solely responsible for operating the equipment safely and in accordance with all instructions, warnings, and load limits.
- Robust Quicklift is not responsible for injuries, damage, or loss resulting from misuse, improper setup, use on unstable surfaces, exceeding load ratings, or modifying/tampering with equipment.
- The equipment must be used only on stable, level, load bearing ground, ensuring all weight and height limits are strictly followed.
- The user must follow all maintenance, inspection, and operational guidelines in the manual.
- If unsure of proper usage, the user must seek professional assistance before operating the equipment.

Important (ACL Notice):

Nothing in this disclaimer limits rights under Australian Consumer Law. Robust Quicklift cannot exclude liability where such exclusion is prohibited, including liability arising from gross negligence, major product failure, or non compliance with mandatory safety guarantees.

2. General Disclaimers (Australia)

In addition to any warranty terms, the following apply:

- Buyers are responsible for ensuring the accuracy and suitability of information relied upon for their purchase or use of the equipment.

- Robust Quicklift retains intellectual property rights over all materials, instructions, and specifications provided.
- Product descriptions, online content, manuals, and specifications are subject to change without notice.
- Robust Quicklift is not responsible for thirdparty content, reseller websites, or external resources.
- To the extent permitted by ACL, the company is not liable for damages resulting from reliance on outdated or incorrect thirdparty information.
- Consumers are entitled to guarantees under the ACL. These guarantees cannot be excluded for major failures or personal injury caused by negligence.

3. "As Is" / Warranty Limitation Disclaimer (Australia)

Unless otherwise stated in a written warranty, Robust Quicklift products are provided as-is in relation to non-essential or non-safety, critical features.

To the extent permitted by ACL: Robust Quicklift is not liable for:

- loss of profits or business revenue
- substitute equipment or service costs
- operational downtime
- third party claims
- incidental or consequential damages not related to injury or major product failure

This limitation DOES NOT apply where prohibited by law.

Specifically:

- Robust Quicklift cannot exclude liability for personal injury or death caused by negligence.
- Robust Quicklift cannot exclude guarantees related to safety, acceptable quality, or fitness for purpose for vehicle lifting equipment.
